Certificate to Accompany Annual 47 C.F.R. § 64.2009(e) CPNI Certification
EB Docket No. 06-36

Sidera submits this accompanying statement to explain how the company's procedures ensure that the Company is in compliance with the substantive requirements set forth in Section 64.2001 et seq. of the Commission's rules.

1. Compliance with Section 64.2007, approval required for use of customer proprietary network information:

Sidera's customers are telecommunications carriers and sophisticated enterprise business customers. As a matter of customer convenience, Sidera's standard contracts permit Sidera to forgo formal CPNI password protection for its customers and to use other commercially reasonable processes (e.g., account number, billing address, contact name, and identification of services) to authenticate customer representatives that contact Sidera to request CPNI. Sidera's customers may request that Sidera implement password protection for the customer's CPNI at any time upon written notice. Sidera's standard contracts recognize that under federal law Sidera has a duty to protect CPNI and that customers have a right to such protection.

2. Compliance with Section 64.2008, notice required for use of customer proprietary network information:

Sidera's customers are telecommunications carriers and sophisticated enterprise business customers. Sidera's standard contracts provide that the customer expressly consents ("opts-in") to access, use, and disclosure of CPNI by Sidera, its agents, and its affiliates to market communications-related services to the customer. These contracts further provide that Sidera may share CPNI with independent contractors and with joint venture partners for purposes of marketing current, new, or additional services to the customer. Customers may revoke access to CPNI for marketing purposes at any time by written notice to Sidera. In addition, Sidera annually provides to customers a Customer Privacy Rights Notice that notifies customers of their right to "opt out" of these contractual provisions. The content of these notifications complies with the Commission's rules. Sidera keeps records of these notifications for at least one year.

3. Compliance with Section 64.2009, safeguards required for use of customer proprietary network information:

Sidera personnel are trained regarding Sidera's CPNI policies. Sidera has a disciplinary process for non-compliance with Sidera's CPNI policies. In compliance with the Commission's rules, a record is kept for a minimum of one year of (i) marketing campaigns by Sidera and its affiliates that use CPNI and (ii) instances in which CPNI is disclosed to, or accessed by, third parties.

March 1, 2011

4. Compliance with Section 64.2010, safeguards on the disclosure of customer proprietary network information:

Sidera has measures in place to discover and protect against attempts to gain unauthorized access to CPNI. Sidera uses commercially reasonable processes (e.g., account number, billing address, contact name, and identification of services) to authenticate customer representatives that contact Sidera to request CPNI. Sidera's customers may request that Sidera implement password protection for the customer's CPNI at any time upon written notice.

5. Compliance with Section 64.2011, notification of customer proprietary network information security breaches:

Sidera has not experienced any CPNI breaches in its operations during the reporting year. However, Sidera has in place procedures to detect breaches and to notify law enforcement and customers, in compliance with the Commission's rules, should a breach occur. In the event of a breach, Sidera has procedures in place to maintain a record of notifications to law enforcement and customers documenting the date(s) of discovery and notification, a detailed description of the CPNI that was the subject of the breach, and the circumstances of the breach, which record would be kept for a minimum of two years.
